

OPERATORS DENY STEEL CHIEFS BACKING THEM

Statements That U. S. Steel
Helping Coal Miners in Labor Fight Denied

WASHINGTON, July 19. — Operators in the Mingo, W. Va., coal field, in resisting efforts to unionize their workmen, acted on their own accord and were in no way influenced by the United States Steel Corporation, Ernest L. Bailey, superintendent of the Portsmouth-Solvay Coke company's mines at Freeburn, Ky., today informed the senate investigating committee. He emphatically denied, when questioned by Senator Kenyon, Republican of Iowa, that there was any association between the operators and the steel corporation in policy toward union labor.

Senator Kenyon read a statement purported to have been issued by W. Jett Lauck, consulting economist for the United Mine Workers, in which it was charged that the steel corporation was the "guiding hand" behind the effort to crush out "the mine workers' organization." The statement said the steel corporation, through its subsidiaries, was the largest producer of coal in West Virginia, was planning in conjunction with the Norfolk and Western railroad to extend its operations in the Mingo field.

Mines supervised by Bailey are across the Tug river from Mingo county. After Harry Olmsted, representing operators in the region, had testified that 27 persons were known to have been killed during disorders since the middle of May, 1920, Bailey described attacks on men employed at his mines who refused to strike.

Bailey testified he had instructions from his superiors not to employ a member of the United Mine Workers unless he renounced his allegiance to the union.

MYSTERY GIRL IS UNABLE TO TELL WHO SHE IS

Denver City and County Officials Baffled by Peculiar Hospital Case

DENVER, July 19. — At the Denver city and county hospital is a pretty young woman, about 19 years of age, who apparently does not know who she is or where she lives. After fainting in the internal revenue office here a week ago today the girl was taken to the hospital.

Since the young woman's arrival at the hospital she has been known locally as "the mystery girl." Every effort has been made by hospital physicians and nurses to make her remember her name and where she came from, but without success.

Several persons have called at the hospital and tried to identify her, but failed to do so.

For three days the girl was locked up in a ward with the insane patients to see if that environment would restore her memory. That, too, failed. The young woman bears every evidence of refinement. She is about five feet, three inches in height, has dark brown hair and hazel eyes. She wears an expensive wrist watch and her nails are well manicured. Her arms and face are tanned by wind and sun from which the conclusion was drawn at the hospital that she had lived an outdoor life.

While no one is talking to her she lies quietly and reads magazines and looks at pictures. When she is being talked to she shows signs of hysteria and speaks incoherently. She frequently pleads: "Don't let them get me again," and asks frequently for her mother. A search of the girl's effects failed to reveal an address.

Only 1600 Women In United States Have Graduated In Law

CLEVELAND, July 19. — There are 8,000,000 women in the United States in gainful occupations, Dr. Amelia Henry Reinhardt, president of Mills College, Oakland, Calif., told the 300 delegates attending the third annual convention of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs in an address today.

Fifty per cent of the women are teachers, Dr. Reinhardt said, while 37 per cent occupy secretarial positions. Only 1600 women have graduated in law.

Mrs. Lena Lake Forrest, of Detroit, national president, in her annual address, pleaded for a better education for business women, sane thinking in problems of the commercial world today, intelligent citizenship and a full acceptance of the responsibilities of equal suffrage.

Woman Identifies Headless Body As That Of Husband

ROSEBURG, Ore., July 19. — Testifying that she believed the headless body found beneath her husband's wrecked and burned automobile last week was that of her husband, the missing dentist, Mrs. R. M. Brumfield today was a witness before the coroner's jury which has the task of deciding whether the victim was the dentist or Dennis Russell, a laborer whom he is accused of killing.

Mrs. Brumfield appeared in a heavy veil and spoke in a low voice. She was shaken by emotion while testifying, breaking into tears and sobbing. She identified a ring found on the body as that of her husband. A watch and chain, burned portion of a necktie, scarf pin, leather key case, and a knife found in the wreckage also were identified.

"I viewed the body in the morgue and it is most certainly my husband," Mrs. Brumfield testified. "I know every line, every curve and the general build of the body and the body is like the doctor's — even to the callous the ring made on his finger. He was of athletic build, although his legs were rather slender. I can't think of anything more that will prove to the jury that the body is that of Dr. Brumfield. I know it is he. I saw Dr. Brumfield and Dennis Russell together. Mr. Russell is very thin and his neck hollow. Mr. Russell's hair was thin."

JACKIE COOGAN SAYS HE AND PATSY MARKS HAVE FIXED UP PLANS FOR GETTING MARRIED

JACKIE AND PATSY ARE RE-UNITED

LOS ANGELES, July 19. — Jackie Coogan is back home!

A great crowd was at the station to meet the $2500-a-week six-year-old film star — little folks and grown-ups, a battery of camera men and Patsy Marks. Patsy managed to get right up in front where Jackie could see her.

And did he? You just bet! Jackie kissed Patsy — several times — right out before everybody. And why not? Didn't Jackie tell the world he's going to marry her?

A "wool, wool" broke into the excitement. Queenie, Jackie's partner in crime in "Peck's Bad Boy," jumped up and nearly knocked his master over.

Jackie knelt down and hugged his dog. "Oh, but I'm glad to get home!" Jackie told everybody that.

After an hour or so of a reception Jackie piled into an auto with his dad and Patsy and Queenie, and started on a triumphant ride through the downtown section of the city.

"When are you and Patsy going to fix up your marriage?" Jackie was asked.

"It's all fixed — isn't it, Patsy?" And Jackie turned to his little sweetheart for backing.

Patsy kinda giggled and said, "uh, huh."

And she fingered the ring Jackie had given her, which, as Jackie says, "set him back 12 bucks."

One thing worries Jackie. He showed the place in his mouth where a tooth had been — but wasn't it came out while he was eating, as a guest of honor, in New York. When it happened Jackie was doubtful as to the requirements of etiquette — whether to swallow it or attempt to conceal it.

He decided to hide it — and was caught in the act. A guest took the tooth, hid it attached to a bracelet and presented it to Mamma Coogan.
